Wainuiomata Road District – A meeting of the ratepayers of the Upper Wainuiomata district was held on Saturday, 29th ult., when the following persons were elected members of the Board of Wardens for the next two years:- Messrs George Allen, John Crowther, George Wood, John Sinclair, J. C. Dick and W. A. Fitzherbert, chairman.

Wellington Independent 06 Apr 1867 District Prize Firing

The Hutt Rifle Volunteers met at the Taita target on Thursday last, to compete for the above prizes. The day was very fine, with a light breeze from the N.W. Only about half of the company competed, and the subjoined is the score:- Captain Mills (20), Ensign Farmer (35), Sergeant John Cole (25), Sergeant D. Speedy (41), Corporal J. H. Speedy (43), Corporal Mason (39), Privates Acourt (33), W. Copeland (30), G. Collis (37), J. Corbett (5), J. Dick (37), Robert Dick (40), William Dick (52), Thomas Grey (39), William Grace (43), N. Grace (46), T. Grace (38), Ch. Hollard (30), Eli Hollard (26), William Hunt (24), J. McIlvride (43), Richard Prouse (42), John Sinclair (38), D. Sinclair (42), J. Rumble (26). The average score is a very good one, and Dick's, we believe, is one of the highest that has been made in New Zealand. The firing for the colonial champion prizes comes off on Monday next, at the Hutt Racecourse, provided the members from the various provinces arrive in time. The butts were erected on Thursday last. It would be desirable that the Hutt and Porirua Rifle Volunteers should be present at the presentation of the prizes, and we feel confident that they would be willing to do so, if the Government were to pay their incidental expenses.

Wairarapa Standard 01 Feb 1871 The Wairarapa Railway

The 'Gazette' of 21st instant contains the following Report of an Exploration by Mr John Rochfort, with a view to finding a practicable Railway Line to Wairarapa via Wainuiomata. Wellington, 17 Jan 1871. Sir, I have the honour to inform you that agreeably with your instructions, I called on Mr Hugh Sinclair, for the purpose of examining a route to the Wairarapa discovered by his sons. Mr John Sinclair at once offered to guide me through, and I have to thank them both for the way in which they furthered my object. Commencing my description from the Hutt, this route crosses the dividing range at an elevation of 547 feet, and falls 314 feet to Mr Sinclair's house in the Wainuiomata. It then follows up the river about six miles and a half, rising 421 feet more. Here it ascends the range dividing the last-named river from the Orongorongo, an additional 751 feet. This is the lowest part of the range, and is 1,495 feet above the sea, of 1,242 feet above Mr Sinclair's house, and is the highest point of the route. To gain this elevation with a gradient of 1 in 49 would require nine miles and a half of distance, whereas there are only six miles and a half. A line would therefore have to begin to ascend three miles below Mr Sinclair's house. I omitted to say that we ascended a hill about 2,220 feet high, from whence we could see all over the line, and ascertained that there was no lower place. Mr Sinclair's route now follows down a branch of the Orongorongo in a southerly direction for about three miles, to its confluence with another stream which leads to the saddle dividing this river from the Wairongomai (N. 30° E and two miles distant). This pass is 365 feet below the other, or 1,130 feet above the sea, and might be easily reached from the Wainuiomata range by heading the first branch, and following the hills round gradually to the lower elevation. At this point an unexpected difficulty occurs; the saddle of the Orongorongo, which rises very gently on its own side, terminates abruptly on the east side of the range; and instead of meeting the source of the Wairongomai River it overlaps it, making a sudden drop of 900 feet, which there is no possible way of avoiding, as the side ranges are nearly perpendicular slips. Mr Sinclair said he had never seen this part of the range before, or he would not have put the Government to the expense of this exploration, and expressed himself quite satisfied that this route was impracticable. The sides of the Wairongomai are very rough and full of slips, and the distance down to the Lake from the saddle is about seven miles, and bears N. 43° E. About two miles from the saddle, a branch comes in on the North side, up which the range is visible which separates the Pakuratahi; its bearing is about North. We returned round by the coast from the Wairarapa, and I have no hesitation in saying that in addition to the distance by the coast road being nearly double that of the Hutt line, a railway could not be made at any reasonable cost, because of the many slips which it would be impossible to avoid, and the small streams which push forward immense shingle fans into the surf. These two questions may now fairly be considered as being set at rest; and I feel assured that the line I have chosen over the Rimutaka is the best that will be found. I append a few altitudes of Mr Sinclair's line:-

Altitudes taken by Aneroid along Mr Sinclair's route.

A. Summit level between Hutt and Wainuiomata	567 feet above the sea
B. Mr Sinclair's house	253
And Six miles and a half up Wainuimata	744
C. Summit level between Wainuiomata and the Orongorongo	1,495
D. Confluence of the two branches of Orongorongo	976
E. Watershed between Orongorongo and Wairongomai	1,130
Junction of first stream flowing into Wairongomai	250
Junction of second stream flowing into Wairongomai	205

The Proprietor of the Wainuiomata Steam Saw Mill is ready to receive orders for any quantity of Rimu, Hinau, or Red Pine, plain or figured, of the best quality in the colony. Heart of Birch suitable for railway sleepers, bridge planking, piles, &c, any quantity and size, up to two feet square, and 60 feet long. The undersigned wishes to draw attention to the fact that for any of the above purposes the heart of Birch is the best wood in New Zealand, being far preferable to Totara; the wear and tear it will stand either in or out of the earth or water being enormous. The undersigned has in his possession wood of that description that has been in water and exposed to the weather for 28 years, which is as good as ever. The good qualities of this timber seem to be little known by our engineers. J. and D. Sinclair, Wainuiomata 28th August.

Messrs Bethune and Hunter's sale of horses yesterday was much impeded by the rain, but most of the stock offered fetched good prices, ranging from £32 to £57, several being quitted at the latter figure. The stallion Young Blackleg did not bring so high a price as was anticipated, probably owing to so many of that class of horses having been in the market lately. He was sold for £60, Messrs J. and D. Sinclair, of Wainuiomata, being the purchasers. All that fine shipment of horses imported by Messrs Bethune and Hunter per s.s. Otago now has been disposed of at very satisfactory rates.

Evening Post 18 Apr 1878 Resident Magistrate's Court – Obtaining goods by false pretences

Owen Cameron was charged on remand with obtaining goods and money of the value of £10 from Messrs Wilson and Richardson, drapers, of Lambton Quay, by means of a valueless cheque. Henry Frederick Davis, assistant to Messrs Wilson and Richardson, stated that on a recent date the prisoner purchased at their shop a suit of clothes and other goods of the value of £3 19s, and tendered in payment a cheque on the Bank of New Zealand for £10, signed "J. and D. Sinclair." He represented that he had been working for Messrs Sinclair, of the Wainuiomata saw-mills, and that the cheque was given to him in payment of his wages. On the faith of these representations the cheque was accepted, and the change handed to the prisoner. Mr Richardson, one of the principals of the firm said he paid the cheque into their account at the National Bank, when it was returned, with an intimation that the Colonial Bank might be tried. Mr Duncan Sinclair, of the firm of J. & D. Sinclair, of Wainuiomata, stated that the cheque produced was not signed by either himself or his brother. The prisoner had been working for them, but left about three weeks ago. His wages were generally paid by cheques. Witness's firm had no account at the Bank of New Zealand. Mr Richardson, re-called, stated that he presented the cheque at the Colonial Bank, and was informed that it was a forgery. The prisoner was then charged with obtaining goods and money from Mr George Pirie, of Tory-street, by similar false representations. The evidence was of the same nature as that in the last case, excepting that the cheque was on the Bank of Australasia. The prisoner obtained goods of the value of £4 13s 6d, receiving the balance (£5 6s 6d) in money. When paid into the bank the cheque was returned "no account." Mr Sinclair stated that the firm had no account at the Bank of Australasia, and that the signature was a forgery. George Harold Norman, teller at the Bank of Australasia, said that when the cheque was presented for payment it was returned, as Messrs Sinclair had no account at the bank. The prisoner said he had been drinking heavily for three weeks, and he did not recollect anything about the cheques. Prisoner was then fully committed for trial on both charges.

Evening Post 04 Jan 1883 Meeting of Creditors

A meeting of Messrs John and Duncan Sinclair (of Wainui-o-mata, sawmill proprietors) creditors was held at the Supreme Court House at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and was attended by about a dozen gentlemen, Mr T. Kennedy Macdonald occupying the chair. Mr Devine, of Messrs Buckley, Stafford, and Fitzherbert, was present on behalf of the Messrs Sinclair. The liabilities, which included several mortgages, were represented to be £15,103 19s 1d, while the assets, consisting of sections of land, live stock, standing crops, sawmill plant, smiths' shops, book debts, &c, were returned at £24,460 10s. A deed, assigning the Messrs Sinclairs' real and personal property for the benefit of their creditors to Messrs Alexander McKenzie and W. R. Waters, was submitted, and without any discussion was unanimously assented to by the meeting, on the motion of Mr Cleland, seconded by Mr Cudby. The same gentlemen respectively proposed and seconded that the trustees' remuneration be fixed at the rate of 5 per cent, calculated on the gross proceeds realized. This motion was also agreed to without discussion. A question was then mooted as to whether the Messrs Sinclair wished to make any statement regarding the circumstances that had led to their adopting the present step; but it was agreed by those present that such a statement was not necessary, and the Chairman expressed his opinion that the whole of the creditors united in regretting that circumstances had proved so unfavourable to the debtors as to compel them, through no fault of their own, to assign their property for the benefit of the creditors. Mr Bell, who appeared for several of the mortgagees, intimidated to the trustees that the mortgagees claimed the sawmill as a whole, and he requested the trustees not to take any immediate steps in reference to dealing with any portion of the machinery pending a settlement between the mortgagees and trustees. The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

Hawera and Normanby Star 20 Aug 1883 Larrikinism

To the Editor of the Star. Sir, - Allow me, through the medium of your valuable paper, to call attention to the most daring instance of wanton larrikinism I have yet heard of. Last Sunday evening I was returning along the Sole road, after having taken a horse to pasture, accompanied by a valuable sheep-dog of the Ettrick breed, my inseparable friend for many years, and which has accompanied me lately from Wellington; he was trotting quietly along, not more than ten paces ahead of me, when he was deliberately shot at before my very eyes by a young scoundrel, who narrowly escaped shooting me, as I was just in line, hidden from his sight by a large stump, and it was beginning to grow dusk. He afterwards tried to make off; but on being pursued and accosted, gave a false name, trying at the same time to make some foolish, blundering excuse for his act. I suppose I could issue a summons against the young scamp for wounding my dog (he has over twenty shot in his shoulder and side), but am unwilling to do so, as the trouble and expense would merely fall upon his parents, who, I am told, are worthy and industrious old people, the father also being hopelessly crippled through an accident; at the same time, such a scandalous action should not be passed over in silence; but I think this exposure may act as a warning to those young colonials who are far too fond of showing their extreme cleverness as sportsmen by pointing their guns at everything they happen to meet. - I am, &c., John Sinclair. Ngaire, August 15.

Evening Post 30 Mar 1891

The evidence adduced at the inquest conducted by Mr Robinson, District Coroner, at the Hospital on Saturday evening on the body of Condenza Charlotte Hill, who died in the Asylum on the previous day, went to show that the deceased was a single woman aged 45, and a governess by profession. She arrived from London by the 'Rialto' in 1878, and was committed to the Asylum soon after she reached the colony. At that time a brother of hers was teaching in the school at Wainui-o-mata, and it is also supposed that she had a brother and sister residing here. She was in an asylum before she came to New Zealand. Dr Ewart, who is in charge of the Mount View Asylum during the absence of Dr Fooks, deposed that death was due to consumption, and a verdict in accordance with his testimony was returned. Mr Carswell was foreman of the jury.

Our Ngaire correspondent writes:- Owing to the increased attendance at our school, the Taranaki Education Board has granted an additional pupil teacher. This will be a help to the present teachers, who have had rather too much to do for some time. Another property has changed hands, at a satisfactory figure. Mr Hugh Nixon has sold his farm and stock on the Finnerty road to Mr Biggs.

Hawera and Normanby Star 02 Mar 1893

Our Ngairé correspondent writes:- We had a dance in the hall on Thursday evening – a good one, too, considering that the gale we have seen so much about came that night. The attendance was not very large, but a fair number braved the fury of the elements on that atrocious night, and were, they say, amply repaid for all the discomfort, including the drenching on the way home. Music was provided by the ladies, Mrs Sinclair kindly lending her piano. Mr Corkill acted as M.C., and gave satisfaction. The supper was first rate, also giving entire satisfaction. In fact everything gave satisfaction – except the weather.

Taranaki Herald 17 Nov 1893 Ngairé

From our own correspondent. November 15. A public picnic and social was given to-day by the Co-operative Dairy shareholders in the building and grounds of the new factory. Throughout the afternoon the grounds, which are pleasantly situated on the Finnerty Road, a short distance from the railway station, were lively with people of all ages indulging in the outdoor games or taking it easy in the shade of the bush. Refreshments, superabundant in quantity and above reproach as to quality, were served at intervals in the curing-room, quite a handsome hall in its present state without shelving. In the course of the afternoon, Mr Robbins, one of the candidates for Egmont, gave a short political address, and, taking advantage of the presence of so many ladies, confined his remarks principally to the social question in which it was expected they would take a keener interest than in the details of finance and land settlement. Towards evening a slight rain came on, and the picnickers mostly dispersed to their homes, only, however, to reassemble a little later and pass a most pleasant evening with dancing and songs. Miss Gooding presided most ably at the piano, kindly lent for the occasion by Mrs Sinclair, whilst throughout the whole affair Mr Thomas, the chairman of the Company, and in fact all connected, were indefatigable in attending to the guests. The factory is as yet incomplete, but is expected to be in working order early in December. The number of suppliers is expected to reach 40, representing a quantity of milk that will tax the capacity of the building, large as it is, to the utmost.

There were weak points in most of the classes, but these are accounted for by the fact that there was not time for a final revision of the whole work, the school having been closed for a time and re-opened just a week before the examination. The preparatory classes were found in a forward state of preparation, most of the subjects being well prepared.

Hawera and Normanby Star 28 February 1894

We have lost one of our old settlers in Mr John Sinclair who has taken his family down the East Road, where he will carry on farming on a considerable scale. While wishing Mr and Mrs Sinclair the best of luck in their new home, we cannot but regret their departure. Ever since the foundation of our township Mr and Mrs Sinclair have taken a prominent part in those entertainments, etc., which have made the name of Ngairé famous throughout Taranaki."
